

Gerald Palmer
The Bombing of St. Helier
 Watercolour, 1979
 38 x 61cm

This pastel depicts the scene on 28 June 1940 when the German Luftwaffe strafed and bombed St Helier harbour prior to the arrival of occupying forces on 1st July. Following several acts of commemoration of the incident on the Albert Quay, including eye-witness testimony by Bob Le Sueur, amongst others, the loan painting was unveiled by the artist in 2011. Palmer was prolific in many media and his artistic career included illustrating books, magazines and comics, notably 'The Eagle' and 'Dan Dare.'
